QUESTION 1

You are designing a new integration in OIC that needs to expose a REST-full interface trigger for client applications.

When choosing request and response options using the REST Adapter Endpoint Configuration Wizard, which is a valid consideration?

- A. Both standard and custom HTTP headers can be defined for either the request or response.
- B. File attachments can be accepted as a request option for the Trigger interface, but you cannot include attachments as a response to the client.
- C. If you select a PUT or POST action (HTTP method), you must define a JSON response payload format.
- D. Although you can define both query and template parameters, only template parameters will be available for mapping in the mapper because query parameters are considered optional.

Correct Answer: C

QUESTION 5

One of your downstream applications is becoming overwhelmed with too many individual synchronous invocations from you current Oracle Integration Cloud (OIC) integration. It has been recommended that you redesign the integration to take advantage of the catch processing capabilities of the application. Which is the MOST appropriate approach for implementing this OIC design best practice?

- A. Create custom batch call function, register the function as a Library in your OIC environment, then use JavaScript action to invoke the application
- B. Reactive the integration and use the disable tracing and message tracking option which will optimize performance for each invocation to the application
- C. Use the Append option in the Write File operation of the Stage File action within a loop to create a single batch to be send to the application
- D. Throttle the individual synchronous calls by adding a Wait activity prior to each invocation to the application within the loop

Correct Answer: C
